LEAD DEVELOPER, THE NEW YORKER

x x x

For the past year I have been working tirelessly as Lead Developer of BarackObama.com. I spend my days and nights buried in politics and staring at screens full of HTML, CSS, and Javascript. I work with the most talented and hilarious people in support of a truly brilliant man.

SEPT. 2011
JAN. 2013

Lead Developer, BarackObama.com

APPLE, INC

Developed and supervised the daily operations of the largest, and first responsive, presidential campaign website in history with over 350 million page views.

Leveraged A/B testing, user focus groups, web analytics reports, SEO optimizations and usability enhancements to improve ROI including an estimated 161% in acquisition conversation rate.

Managed five developers with a variety of specialties and expertise, responsible for the creation and maintenance of all voter persuasion projects for BarackObama.com.

Collaborated with stakeholders, project managers, designers, devops engineers and user experience engineers to translate the goals of the campaign into world-class interactive experiences such as the Affordable Care Act Tool and Young Americans for Obama.

Led the broadest implementation of custom Facebook Open Graph actions which published over 700,000 unique actions.

Created and maintained documentation, best practices, and coding standards for a team of twenty developers.
